Sensitive information

This includes health information (if you provide us with this) such as access needs or allergies.

Online information

We use some online tracking and analysis services, such as Google Analytics, to find out how our website is being used, which activities are working best, and how we can improve our customer experience online.

Like most websites, we receive and store certain details whenever you use the Triskel Arts Centre website. We use “cookies” [<https://triskelartscentre.ie/cookie-policy/>] to help us make our site – and the way you might use it – better. Cookies mean that a website will remember you and enable online transactions. It also helps us understand how you use our website, where we can make improvements and how best to tell our audiences about events they might be interested in, through recommendations on our own site, or adverts elsewhere on the internet.

We keep a record of the communications we send you, and we may track whether you receive or open electronic communications so that we can ensure we are sending you the most relevant information.

We use social media to provide updates on our activities, to promote events and projects or to communicate with you about the activities in which you are involved. We may tailor adverts on social media and elsewhere online relevant to your interests. Depending on your own privacy settings with each social media provider, you can control the Triskel Arts Centre’s permission to access information via social media platforms.

Data from third parties

We may also obtain or collect personal information about you from other third party sources, for example:

- If we engage external suppliers for photography and video capture

- Publicly available information, such as your biography on your work website or information that has been published in articles/ newspapers.
  - From our board members or other volunteers, for example if they invite you to a concert or event or exhibition opening to you about relevant opportunities to support our work as an Arts Charity. Should you wish not to receive marketing or fundraising calls from us please let us know via triskelboxoffice@triskelartscentre.ie

Membership

Customers joining one of our membership schemes will receive information by email and post relating to events and activities as a paid-for benefit of the scheme.

Fundraising and profiling

As a charity, Triskel Arts Centre relies on donations from individuals to support its charitable purposes. To do this, we look to identify individuals who, in addition to being purchasers of tickets, may be interested in supporting our charitable objectives through other means, including charitable donations. We also review whether existing donors may wish to provide further financial support.

To enable us to do this in an efficient, effective and focused way, and to ensure the requests we make are appropriate, proportionate and tailored, we may use publicly available information (collected either in-house or by third parties) to identify whether or not you are likely to wish to provide additional donations to Triskel Arts Centre. We do not allow third parties to use the data we provide them about you for other purposes.

The information that we may process includes publicly available information relating to your wealth (including house price values), whether you are a trustee of a charity or have previously donated to similar charities, or raised funds for charitable purposes, in addition to your interest in the arts.

We understand that not all of our audience members or donors will want us to carry out such processing and you are free at any time to ask us to stop doing this in respect of your data. You can do this by contacting triskelboxoffice@triskelartscentre.ie. If you do this, we will delete the information that we have collected about you for these purposes.
